

Wine and dine your valentine at these NYC restaurants

By Nicole Levy nicole.levy@amny.com January 15, 2018

It's almost time to impress that special someone for Valentine's Day.

A home-cooked meal can be great, don't get us wrong. But it can also go horribly, horribly wrong. So if you don't want to take any chances roasting that goose in your finicky oven or lighting candlesticks in your living room, let the hospitality professionals handle all the cooking and the ambiance.

Restaurants around the city are gearing up to help you organize a night you and your better half will almost certainly remember. Here are the menus a few are offering:

The first stateside location of chef-owner Dong Zhenxiang's celebrated Beijing-based, roast-duck chain is pulling out all the stops for Valentine's Day, with a $195 fix-course pre-fixe menu that includes a complimentary glass of champagne. It wouldn't be DaDong if the menu didn't feature the Peking duck, but other dishes include squid ink soup, geoduck clams with green Sichuan peppercorns and short ribs. The showstopper at the end is a heart-shaped chocolate dessert emblazoned with the words "DaDong loves you." (3 Bryant Park, Manhattan, dadongny.com)